Special Meeting

Alberta Craft introduced Rev. Sheila Murray, minister at Royal York United Church.

Rev. Sheila quoted from the poem The Road Not Taken, by Robert Frost to introduce the topic transition with grace. In making choices in life we never know for certain the long term effect. Some transitions are chosen by others or circumstance, especially as we age, so take control of what we can and make the best of the future.

Faced with any situation we have the choice to be stuck in bitterness or carry on with grace. Choose to be positive and take control of what is possible. As much as you can pre-choose things that will affect you as you age. For example preplan funerals and acquaint yourself with nursing homes.

It is important to take the time to grieve any loss through a transition. Dr. Alan Wolfelt, founder of the Center for Loss and Life Transition, says acknowledge life's losses, honour pain and live life fully until we die. Sheila believes that the only choice we do have is to live through transitions with courage, grace and optimism.

Bruce Sinclair thanked Sheila for a presentation that excelled his expectations.
